Dear Chairmen Moran and Rogers, Ranking Members Van Hollen and Meng:

We write to express our strong support for continued funding of the Second Chance Act in the FY 2026 Commerce Justice Science Appropriations bill.

Congress passed the bipartisan Second Chance Act in 2008 to reduce recidivism rates and address the reentry needs of individuals returning to our communities each year from jail and prison. In 2018, President Trump signed the reauthorization of the Second Chance Act into law, extending the program and including improvements to services for reentering individuals with substance use disorders.

To date, the Second Chance Act has served over 442,000 people¹ through more than 1,300 grants to state, Tribal, and local agencies and community-based organizations across U.S. states and territories.² Three-year reincarceration rates have decreased 23 percent nationally since the Second Chance Act was passed in 2008.³ By bolstering reentry programs and services, the Second Chance Act builds stronger families and communities through helping individuals successfully reenter society upon release from incarceration, thereby reducing recidivism rates and improving public safety.

Additionally, Second Chance Act grants have helped address the unique challenges of the continued substance use disorder and overdose crisis. Research shows that an estimated 65 percent of the United States prison population has an active substance use disorder,⁴ and people released from prison are up to 129 times more likely to overdose within the first 2 weeks of release compared to the general population.⁵ Second Chance Act programs are urgently needed to provide communities with access to substance use disorder treatment services for the growing number of people with behavioral health needs in prisons and jails, as well as connections to jobs and housing. From 2009 to 2023, more than 60 percent of all participants enrolled in employment, housing, or education services through SCA-funded programs gained employment, obtained housing, or received vocational certificates or degrees, respectively.⁶

We are grateful for your longstanding commitment and leadership in ensuring that our communities are kept safe through responsible and smart initiatives. We respectfully ask for your continued support of crucial Second Chance Act reentry programs in the FY 2026 Commerce Justice Science Appropriations bill.
